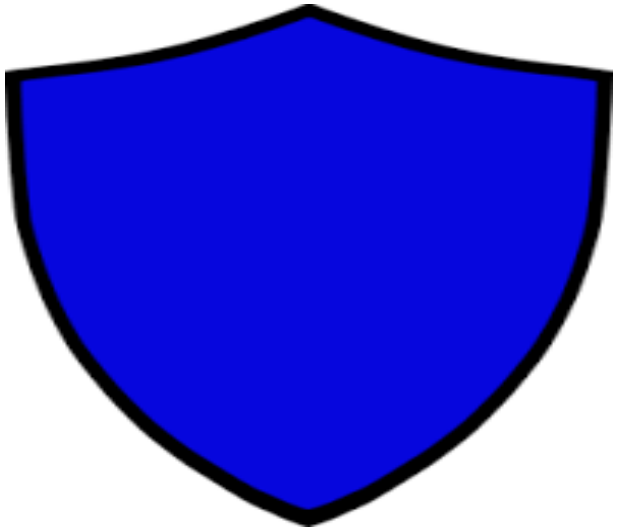
Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

The Rights Respecting School Award
Cumran Primary School

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

What have we done so far?

The Rights Warriors



Level 1

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

Each class has created and designed a class charter.

Making a classroom charter is an important part of becoming a Rights Respecting School

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

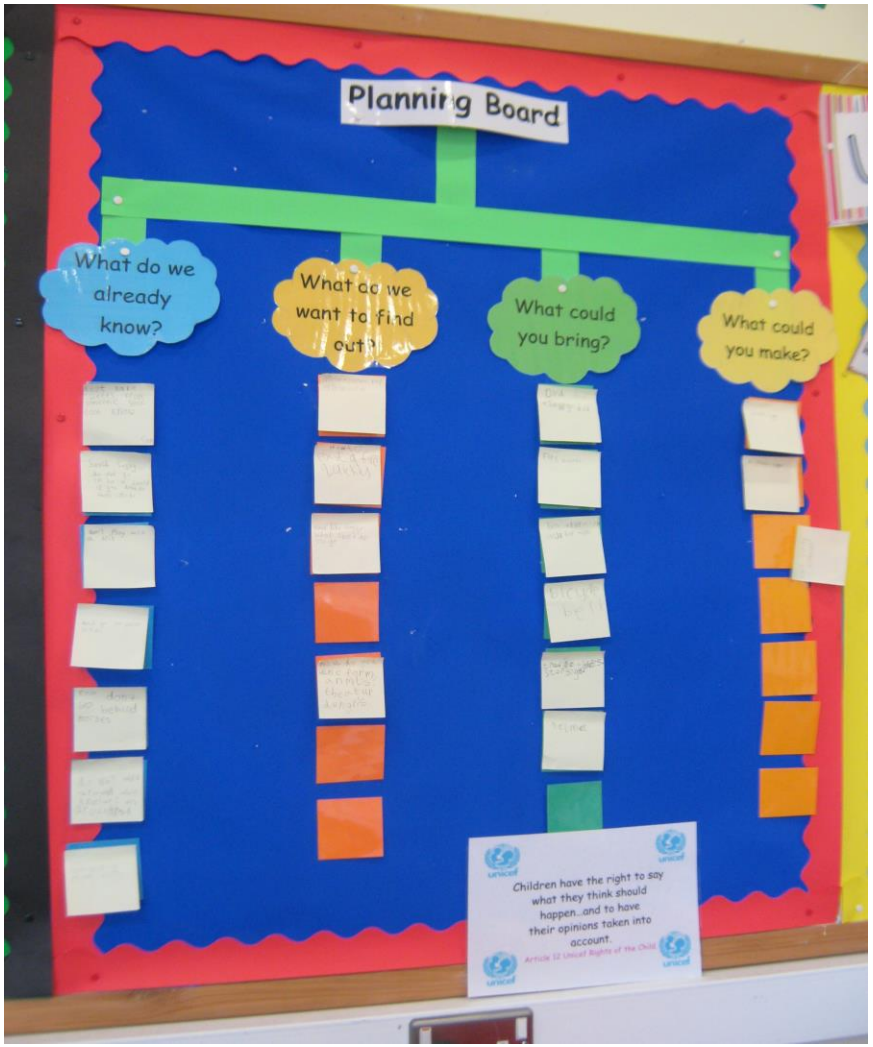
We have learnt about rights in PDMU and WAU lessons.

We have linked articles from the UNCRC to our displays in class and corridor.

RIGHTS RESPECTING SCHOOL • UNICEF •

unicef

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.



Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

We have also learnt about rights in our key stage assemblies.

This year we took part in OUTRIGHT a nationwide celebration of children's rights

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

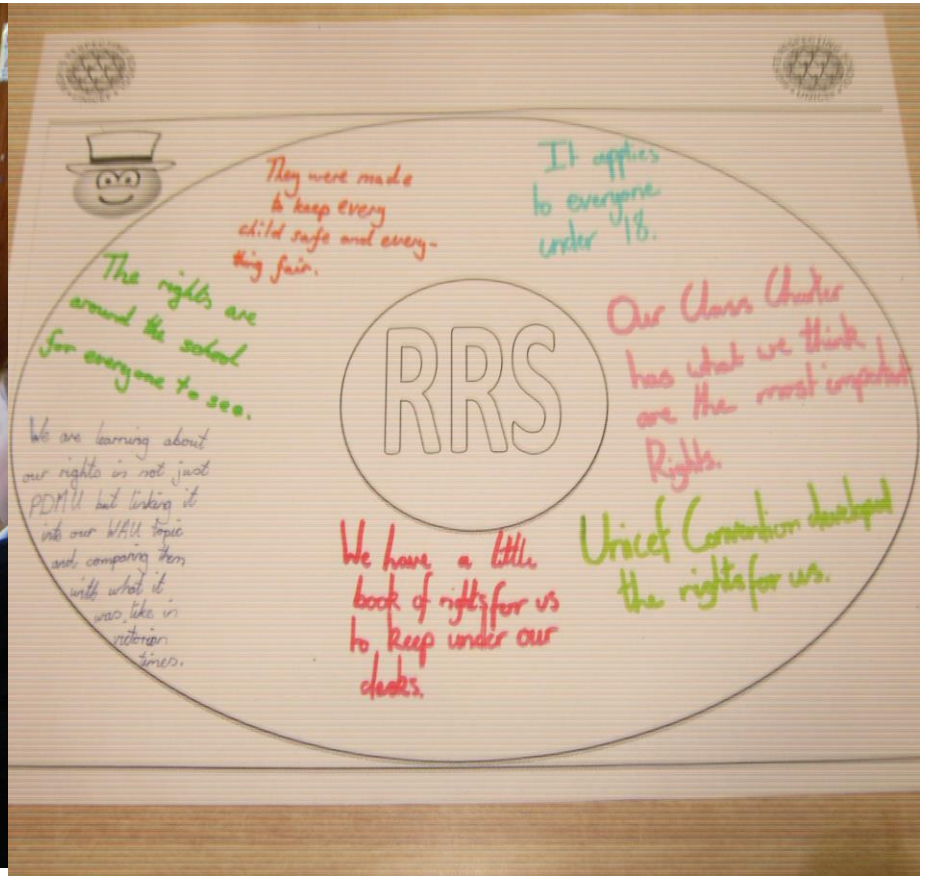
We also looked at the difference between a want and a need in assembly.

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

In the assembly we also talked about our sponsor child Patrick. We understand that children wherever they live have the right to their basic needs being met.

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

The Rights Warriors meet once every two weeks to help promote rights in Cumran Primary School.



Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

Our role is to:

- develop the school's RRS action plan
- ensure that the whole school are aware of the Rights Respecting Schools Award
- provide a link between children, teachers, senior leadership team, governors and the whole school community.

Denying child rights is wrong. Put it right.

Thank you all very much for your time this afternoon and thank you for supporting our RRS journey!